Options for metrics that need work:

Have students earn Spiral Review points

- Spiral Review points produce color rating changes
- Model assignment skills before students begin independent practice
- Include 3 or fewer skills in an assignment
- Include at least 8 Spiral Review points in each assignment
- Use Spiral Review as the warm-up each day
- Consider a targeted Spiral Review day

Deactivate skills in Spiral Review

- Remove precursor skills with high proficiency
- Remove skills that do not resemble state assessment

Conference with students

- Use GMM's Student Data Worksheet
- Encourage students to change color ratings to green or better

Observe student screens

- Red squares indicate a student is struggling with the skill
- Exclamation marks indicate mistakes that have not been fixed
- Orange cut corners indicate the student has avoided the problem
- Encourage students ask for help for red squares, exclamation marks, or orange cut corners

Use additional classes for exceptional students

- Use a challenge class for students working above grade level
- Use a separate class for students working below grade level
- Students can be in multiple classes with one username

Use Spiral Review to remediate

- Use Spiral Review proficiency data to create small groups
- Use the full screen button to model and provided targeted practice
